The city of Querétaro, situated in the State of Querétaro, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site. With its colonial aqueduct as a major landmark and a wonderfully preserved city center, Querétaro embodies the beauty of colonial Mexico. Many international companies have located in and around Querétaro giving it an excellent reputation as a center for business and commerce. With a population of nearly 600,000 inhabitants, Querétaro is large enough to be interesting, and small enough to be very livable.

Querétaro is currently the only campus open in Mexico. All the other campuses are currently closed.

Mexico offers sunshine, blue seas, crystal-white beaches, jungles, mountains, the fascinating remains of ancient cultures, and a colorful mix of contemporary cultures and customs. Studying in Mexico offers you the opportunity to bring relevance and reality to your education by improving your Spanish language skills and deepening your understanding not only of Mexico, but also of yourself and your own country.
