

Lyrics

You Won't Lose Me

There's an issue to address, that you don't want to say.
Your emotions take the wheel and drive the truth away.
Careless words, too cruel become the tools that are building you a wall.
Careful where they fall...

You lost your head,
you lost your keys
and you lost your friends
in your time of need
but, you won't lose me.

Tempers flaring in the night tear your insides out.
Resist your instinct to fight, despite your fears and doubt, and I know your close companions chose to drop your calls from home, but, please, know you're not alone.

You lost your head,
you lost your keys
and you lost your friends
in your time of need
but, you won't lose me.

Try as you may,
try as you might,
I will stay,
wrong and right.

There's a sorrow in your soul, and weight upon your back, never gaining full control, aware of where you lack,
and the crushing blows that knock you down, just take them in your stride.
Don't hide it all inside.

You lost your head,
you lost your keys
and you lost your friends
in your time of need
but, you won't lose me.
