

Forum Post and Response Rubric

Exceeds: E Proficient: PR Developing Proficiency: DP Does Not Meet: DNM

+1 option	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If your initial forum post score is below 5, and the forum is “optional reply” there is an extra point option: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ You may earn 1 additional point by posting a thoughtful (level 4) response to a classmate’s post
E-5	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Thoroughly developed, thoughtful and complete answer • Includes specific references to assigned materials (or post that you are replying to) • Enhanced with relevant references or resources beyond the given materials Possible examples – Relating forum post ideas to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ An article or other reading (referenced and not part of assignment) ○ A conference presentation that you attended (well described) ○ Educationally relevant web resource (examples referenced and not part of assignment) ○ CCSS resources (beyond simple standard references, see CCSS resource page) <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Well written, and free from grammatical and spelling errors
E/PR – 4	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Thoroughly developed, thoughtful and complete answer • Includes specific references to assigned materials • Well written, and free from grammatical and spelling errors
PR – 3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Adequately developed and complete answer • Well written, and free from grammatical and spelling errors
PR/DP-2	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Partially developed or especially terse answer OR • Not particularly well written (hard to follow, spelling or grammar errors)
DP-1	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Partially developed or especially terse answer AND • Not particularly well written (hard to follow, spelling or grammar errors)
DNM - 0	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Does not answer given question, very minimal or no response