

In connection with the video “The Proof,” do the following tasks. Bring your writing next time and be prepared to share your thoughts and reactions. In the interest of saving paper, I encourage you to do your writing on this sheet, front and back.

- During the video, write down any questions which come to mind and note anything that you find interesting.
- As soon after the video as possible, free-write your reaction to it and comments about it. Address both your emotional and intellectual reactions.
- At the beginning of the quarter, you free-wrote any thoughts that came to mind when you thought of the question, “What is mathematics?” In view of our studies the past 5 weeks, free-write your additional thoughts, changes of opinion, or whatever regarding that question.

As before, the answers are to be your personal opinions. The only thing to avoid are superficial answers. There are no wrong answers.
